Dillingham & Co's.

The other day our reporter strolled into Dillingham & Co.'s to get a little information on the subject of agricultural implements, as he had invested a few dollars in a share of sugar plantation stock, and he wanted to know all about it, so he could see if the managers were really attending to their business in that line.

He was received most courteously by Mr. Dillingham, who conducted him carefully through a mazy labyrinth of articles, varying from a pocket-knife to a plough and a dustpan to a refrigerator. We give the following report as the result of his observations:

The firm have four large warehouses on the beach in which they keep the things that they can't squeeze into their already filled store. But they tell us that they are constantly emptying their shelves in the store, and as constantly emptying their warehouses to supply the deficiency.

Next they keep a paint and oil warehouse in which they have stored all kinds of American and English leads and paints, oils, carriage and furniture varnishes, etc., and especially a large stock of lubricating oils for plantation use. Our reporter did not make too close an examination, as he had his Sunday clothes on, and so he passed on up stairways and ladders till he reached the third story, which is filled with agricultural implements in bulk.

Then coming down to the second story he wandered through a maze of lamps and lamp ware. On every side chandeliers and lamps and piles of kerosene oil cases, of which Dillingham & Co. sometimes receive as much as 2,000 cases at a single shipment. The Electric (what a suggestive title) is the favorite brand. Passing from light to heavy, he came across the object of his search, the ploughs, &c.

Here are displayed, ready for use, a full line of Moline ploughs, able to cut furrows from 6 to 16 inches in width, harrows, (Truman & Jackson's are well-known on the islands and possess excellent local testimonials), cultivators adapted to all the different kinds of soil found on the islands. Here, too, are the justly celebrated Dillingham & Co. ploughs, which have been constructed from suggestions made by practical planters. There are both single and double furrow ploughs of this type, the improved 14 in breaker, and so well do they meet the long felt wants of planters that they are brought at first sight. A well-known kamaaina, Parker Makee, Esq., says they are the best that have ever come into the islands. The double furrow type is the latest and is still further improved; it is believed to be without a defect: Messrs. Dillingham & Co. proudly point to it as a practical evidence of the interest they take in the improvement of the islands. The next visited was Baldwin's improved fodder cutters, which we know from experience to be thoroughly useful to every cultivator in providing chopped food for his live stock.

Coming down to the ground floor the Studebaker & Davis iron wagons were inspected. These are intended for planters use in carrying sugar down from the mills to the landing, and bringing merchandise back.

Then the wonderful variety of mechanics' tools were shown too, and what is more interesting to the housewife, the beautiful utensils of agate ware were looked at. Messrs. Dillingham & Co., for the convenience of intending purchasers, have prepared an excellent illustrated and priced catalogue, which they supply gratis. Here our reporter's notes become simply a catalogue, twines, fishing gear, brushes of all sorts, builder's hardware, planter's hardware, novelties in house-furnishing, tinware, coal oil stoves, water filters, and a specially interesting item for Honoluluans, the newest styles of ice chests. These have sold very rapidly and only a few are left.

Messrs. Dillingham & Co. are immense on giving away catalogues and fly sheets, descriptions of their wares. We recommend our readers to pay a visit to Messrs. Dillingham & Co., if only to experience the courtesies of Mr. B. F. Dillingham and Mr. Spencer.

Supreme Court—In Equity (Before Vice-Chancellor Judge McCully.)

The Booth Estate case was settled on Monday morning. The estate was sold for $45,200, and after deducting $1002.10 for expenses, the balance $44,197.90 was divided as follows: Mrs. Annie Long gets the income from $14,732.63, as dower during her life time; afterwards it will be divided in the same proportion as the rest of the estate: Wahinealoha (widow of J. Booth) and Pauahi, her husband, get $181.88; Sara A. Berger and H. Berger, Grace A. Dodd and James Dodd, Clara Schmidt and F. W. Schmidt, E. C. Maertens and W. Maertens, Wm. Booth, F. Pfleger Booth (a minor), Chas. Booth (a minor), Ida E. Nordberg and E. N. Nordberg, get $3,650.42 each. Mrs. Nordberg's share to be paid over to the mortgagees—S. C. Allen and G. Segelken—and a lien of over $1000 given to G. Segelken on her share of the dower.

We hear that the megapode lily raiser is in town. What is it?

The steamer Iwalani brought 1040 packages of sugar yesterday.

The bark Paradox sails to-day for San Francisco. She takes 15,141 bags of sugar and 1300 bags rice.

By the courtesy of the Post Office officials we learn that 3,237 letters and 784 papers were dispatched by the Suez.

The customs department are busy forwarding the fittings for the new collectorate at Mahukona, to which Mr. Sisson has lately been appointed.

HACKFELD'S Great Credit Sale, which lasted for five days owing to the immense assortment of goods disposed of, realized about $60,000.

The steamer Suez took yesterday, for San Francisco 1907 bunches of bananas, 1,118 bags, 5,638 pkgs. and 170 mats sugar, 1,388 bags rice and 2,295 bags paddy.

The pastor will lead the prayer meeting to-night at Fort st. Church. Those who wish to join the Church are requested to be present and meet the Standing Committee.

The ship noticed by us in our telephonic yesterday morning passed the port and held no communication with the shore, so that we are unable to give any particulars.

To-morrow a complimentary banquet at the Hotel will be tendered by the leading American residents to the in-coming and out-going U. S. Ministers, R. M. Daggett and Gen. Comly. "Welcome the coming, speed the parting guest."

Kaumakapili was thronged last night.

FIRE at Waikiki at 11.45 P.M. House of Nailpelapela opposite Dodd's Baths burnt down, grandson Kelli burnt to death. Lamp without chimney set fire to mosquito curtain. He went for water but got back too late to do any good, then went for his grandson and got badly burnt. Some reports mention his wife as badly burnt, others that he had no wife.

MR. KOECHLIN'S horse and phaeton to be sold on Thursday, by E. P. Adams are well worth purchasing. The horse is a quiet, gentle, and fine looking animal suitable for family use, and can be driven by a lady. It is warranted sound in every respect.

Mr. Koechlin's party last night was pronounced to be the event of the season. The whole house was illuminated, and the festivities were kept up to a late hour. All the guests wished Mr. and Mrs. Koechlin bon voyage.

YESTERDAY a Portuguese coming past Punchbowl Hill found the dead body of a Chinaman. He reported to the Police Station. It was afterwards found he had committed suicide by taking poison. Laundryman by trade. Body ordered to be interred in the Chinese Cemetery.

We hear that some of our leading musical amateurs intend to produce Sullivan's operetta or burlesque cantata of "Trial by Jury," at a future date. We suggest to them the musical farce of "Box and Cox" by the same author, as being equally musical and perhaps more comical. All such efforts for our amusement should meet with the greatest encouragement and success.

YESTERDAY MORNING we had a few showers which laid the dust a little, but we hope shortly to have regular showers from Mr. Dodd's street sprinkler. The dust is a great annoyance to everybody and we would recommend our readers to patronize those business men, who are anxious to promote everybody's comfort by allaying the dust nuisance in front of their doors. Yet there are, we hear, some business places who think they cannot afford $1.00 a week for the comfort of themselves and their customers.

Cetewayo and four of his chiefs were in the gallery for distinguished strangers in the House of Commons yesterday. Cetewayo also visited the Earl of Kimberly at the Colonial Office during the day.

Pasquin.

In the latter part of the 15th century, there lived in Rome a cobbler named Pasquin or Pasquino. This cobbler's shop was a great place of resort for all classes of people, who assembled there for the purpose of hearing the current scandal and listening to the witty sayings and satirical remarks of Pasquin. In the course of time the satirist became so widely known that the people attributed every humorous or sarcastic saying to him. It was contrary to etiquette for any one who was satirized to show resentment. After Pasquin's death, a mutilated statue standing at the end of the Braschi Palace near the piazza Navona, was dug out and set up near his shop, and the populace declared that Pasquin had come to life again. The mutilated statue was called by his name, and it became customary to paste on to it scraps of satirical writing, and all descriptions of caricatures and lampoons. These were often directed at persons in high life, particularly popes and cardinals. The work of attaching the satires and cartoons was usually done by persons unknown under the cover of darkness, and at the first dawn of light Pasquin would be surrounded with crowds of people anxious to see the "latest." At a later date various other statues in different parts of the city were made the vehicles of similar documents; but Pasquin held the supremacy over all rivals, and has handed down to our time his name, his reputation, and his method of treating public men and their measures.

THE funeral of J. Everts Chamberlain will take place at 10 o'clock to-day, at the family residence on King street.
